

It's all about structure!

Alphabet soup...
That is how some
healthcare software
developers describe
the way they see
their resourced
clinical databases.

If your programming experience with the way clinical databases and updates are delivered is like assembling words out of alphabet soup, we've got good news for you. CliniDATA Source is a new name to the healthcare industry but the products and services it provides have been in existence for approximately two decades. CliniDATA Source is providing the clinical database engines for practice management DUR screening and pharmaceutical care decision support systems currently in use in over two thousand U. S. pharmacies from coast to coast.

CliniDATA Source offers a comprehensive set of drug information and clinical intelligence software that is concise, accurate and timely. It can be easily linked to any healthcare information system using a simple "Dynamic Link Library" (DLL) or a text-file interface with a minimal amount of programming.

CliniDATA Source,
simply a fresh concept.
